Positive for COVID-19?

If you got a positive result on a self-test that you administered at home, report your result to the Rhode Island Department of Health at portal.ri.gov/s/selftest.

If you got a positive result on a test administered at a medical office or testing site, go to portal.ri.gov/results, enter your information to view your positive test result, and fill out the COVID-19 survey that is linked there.

- Isolate away from others for at least 5 days. On day 6 you can leave isolation if your symptoms are improving and you don't have a fever. After isolation, wear a high-quality, well-fitting mask for 5 more days when around others.

- Contact your healthcare provider about treatment for COVID-19 if you are eligible.

- Tell your close contacts you are positive for COVID-19.

- Get vaccinated and stay up to date with your vaccines once your symptoms go away and you're fully recovered.

Visit covid.ri.gov/whattodo for more information.

4/6/2022

RHODE ISLAND DEPARTMENT OF HEALTH

RHODE ISLAND