

Rhode Island quarantine requirements

Quarantine if you've recently arrived in Rhode Island from a location outside the United States (US) or US territories or from a hot spot within the US or US territories, or if you've been in close contact with someone who tested positive for COVID-19.

Close contact means you've been within 6 feet of someone with COVID-19 for a total of 15 minutes or more in a 24-hour period.

If you arrived from a hot spot within the US and US territories, you do not have to quarantine if you are traveling for work. For other exceptions, visit covid.ri.gov/travel

If you're fully vaccinated against COVID-19, you may not have to quarantine. Learn more at covid.ri.gov/whattodo

If you get symptoms of COVID-19, isolate at home, call your healthcare provider, and get a COVID-19 test.

The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) requires all air passengers arriving in the US from a foreign country to provide a negative COVID-19 test result or documentation of recovery.

The CDC continues to endorse 14-day quarantine as the safest protocol but has released new data and information to allow local public health officials to modify policies based on local conditions and needs.
